Melissa McVay, Kevin Worth, Nancy Russell, and Brianna Higgins search for their next class on the first day. Even those who were not freshmen had some trouble finding classrooms.

Chad Bennett finds a free moment at his newly assigned science seat. Many students found little spare time in their busy schedules. Nicholas

Top Secret

'Mum' was the word before students entered school on August 30. Students anticipated what secret changes had been made while they worked at part time jobs and frolicked at the beach.

Through the grapevine students heard secrets that homeroom began at 7:35 and that the old four minute passing time between classes had been reduced to three.

As upperclassmen returned they found the old yearbook theme "Why Be Normal" had been changed to the upbeat theme of "Top Secret." Delighted students met Ms. Mott, the new biology teacher, and top floor guidance counselors, Ms. Sazama and Ms. McElroy. Also, the Environmental Club was now available to all top reducers, reusers and recyclers.

Newly acquainted with the recent changes, students enjoyed exploring what was once...Top Secret. Elaina Parlee, Meghan McSheffrey

Nervous freshmen hop off of the bus on the first day. The bus proved to be a popular form of transport for many underclassmen. Nicholas

Seniors at last! Bryan Marks and Joanne Struzziero wait to receive their schedule from Mrs. Ripley. Nicholas

Anxiety of senior year started on the first day. Katie Wyatt and Kate McDonough file nervously into the auditorium for Mr. Wassels' assembly for twelfth grade students. Nicholas

Freshmen students rush to homeroom on their opening day. Many freshmen were scared of being late to a class but most teachers were lenient the first week of school. McGrath

On the first day freshmen often spent much time at their lockers trying to remember their combinations. Some students found that they had to change their locker if it was jammed or if the combination simply didn't work. McGrath

Good friends Kerri Blake and Mark Grushey catch up on summer activities on the first day. Seniors often used their free periods to chat with friends McGrath Bryan Martin rocks on at the junior prom. Students could easily spot the advanced dancers on the crowded floor of the pit. Nicholas

A freshmen student checks to see where to find his homeroom. Freshmen were often puzzled on the first day when it came time to actually find the classrooms. Nicholas

Mr. Wassel took time out of his hectic first day schedule to meet with new students. Although some students were nervous to meet the headmaster, they quickly realized that he is a friendly man. McGrath

Top SECRET

Joleen Grabowski meets up with a friend on the first day. Some classmates lost touch over the busy summer. McGrath

Students topped off their summer with work and college interviews before the secrets of the new school year unfolded. With the secret identities of forty new transfer students and two new guidance counselors, Ms. Sazama and Ms. McElroy revealed, students prepared to make it to the top of the class.

Before the hubbub of the school year commenced, students worked out their own 'top secrets' for classes and for the future. Elaina Parlee, Meghan McSheffrey

Hi Ho Hi Ho, It's Off To School We Go

Even with the abbreviated summer, seniors still forgot how to fill out schedules and other school documents. McGrath

Labor day: cook-outs, pool parties, barbecues...HOMEWORK!? On August 31, while other children were drowsily rolling out of bed to another day of summer, Braintree students were preparing for their first day of school. Students tried to view only the positive aspects. "It is easier for people to concentrate in early August than in late June", declared an optimistic Amanda Lacey. "It's hard to study in June, when it's hot and sticky outside", agreed Mike Grugan.

"I wasn't able to spend as much time as I would have liked at my summer house in New Hampshire. If I was there now I'd be tubing, swimming, and having a great time, but no, I'm going to school." screamed an annoyed Eileen Murray. While many were complaining about the abbreviated vacation, some were just upset they were back in school. "It's hard studying when it's so nice outside, especially when you know others are playing in the sun", exclaimed Anne Hurlebaus.

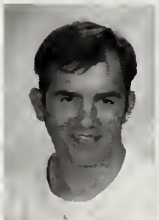

Once students got back into the swing of things, some were happy to be back. "I was glad to get back to school and see my friends and get back on a set schedule", declared Jeff Candura. While some students agreed, the majority still thought it was tough going to labor day parties knowing they had to leave early in order to complete their homework. Brendan Casey

TOP NOTCH FRESHMAN

"The High School is like the Junior High. Yet, the classes are longer and the homework is heavier," commented Courtney Darsch. This was a common remark from the freshman entering the High School. They believed that they would get lost and never find their way. They were surprised at the homework and all the rooms of the high school. "I was shocked when the teachers assigned us at least three hours of homework in each class. Yes, I expected lots of homework, but never this much," remarked Michelle Keady. Homework was also a problem for people with activities after school. "I find it hard to do homework when I have soccer practice after school. I just don't have the time anymore," stated Caitlin Phillips.

"The teachers are stricter than that at the junior high. I wish I could go back and have all my old teachers," revealed Amanda Petitti. The freshman found it hard to adjust to the fact that they don't see their friends as much. Believe it or not freshman, you have three years left!! Michelle Pedretti

Longer Days, a Yawn

With the dreaded arrival of school, students found themselves gypped of several summer days. They found other changes, too.

The earlier start of school upset senior Jackie Alexander. "I feel like they're taking away time that we worked hard for all year." Sophomore Lauren Hughes responded, "But, by starting school earlier we will get out earlier in June."

The year started earlier, and the day did, too. Senior, Karin Avitabile said, "For four years we've gotten into a routine before school. This year everything has changed. Junior, Beckie DeNicloa expressed, "the shortened time takes away from class time, that's not the intention of the change."

The three minute passing time reduced from four, presented an obstacle. "It's so hard to make it to your locker and back!" Katie Alongi complained. Julie Diamond remarked, "It's hard if you're at one end of the school and you need to get to the other with all the people in your way." Freshman Timothy Clark commented, "three minutes doesn't seem to be enough time to change classes in such a big building."

Another major change was the co-ed gym classes. "I like it. It's a lot more interesting!" claimed Ryan Pitts. Dana Swain exclaimed, "It rocks!"

In school suspension changed, too. It started in the middle of the day and ended just before the late bus came. Mr. Wassel hoped that this would discourage students from looking forward to ISS. Erin Murphy

The early start to the school day has Marc Testa yawning. Students found that they had to be up by six thirty each morning. McGrath

A Whole New World

"The school has welcomed me so nicely, everyone has treated me like I'm part of the team" exclaimed Breda Butler, a recent transfer to Braintree High School. Along with Breda, 40 students arrived, for the first time, at Braintree High School this year. While some arrived from as far as Yugoslavia, and Ireland, others came from just around the corner.

"I enjoy this school much more than my old one, the classes are smaller, the school is bigger, and there are lots of tennis courts," remarked an enthusiastic Jackie Chu. An overwhelming amount of students found Braintree High School more enjoyable than their previous school. Transfers found the school to have more equipment available for them, students friendlier and teachers more personable.

Even though new students found the school more resourceful, there was one thing missing. "Even though I have met many new people, I still miss my friends and classmates from Yugoslavia," commented Nebojsa Bjelotomic. Getting oriented may have been hard at first, but soon all new students felt like they were part of the team. Brendan Casey

Matt LeVante wanders the school in attempt to become acquainted with his new place of study. Faculty were always willing to direct students in the right direction. Fink

Newcomers Nebojsa Bjelotomic and Jai Singh receive the royal welcome from Mr. Wassal. Students and teachers could often be found helping the recent transfers fit in. McGrath

Noelle Achille and Craig Castriano found that lunch was a great time to digest healthy food and talk about exercise. Many students believed that lunch was not just a time to talk with friends, but also a time to feed their face and catch up with all new diet and exercise trends. Fruit juice and power snacks were very popular. K. Fink

THE Student Body

Oranges, milk, and grapes, Oh My! In the cafeteria students munched on carrots, slurped milk, and digested loads of starches and carbohydrates. "I love's me the celery. My mother makes me celery sticks with cream cheese or peanut butter every day," stated Eileen Murray.

Often students ate healthy foods and did not even know. "Pizza is healthy?" asked

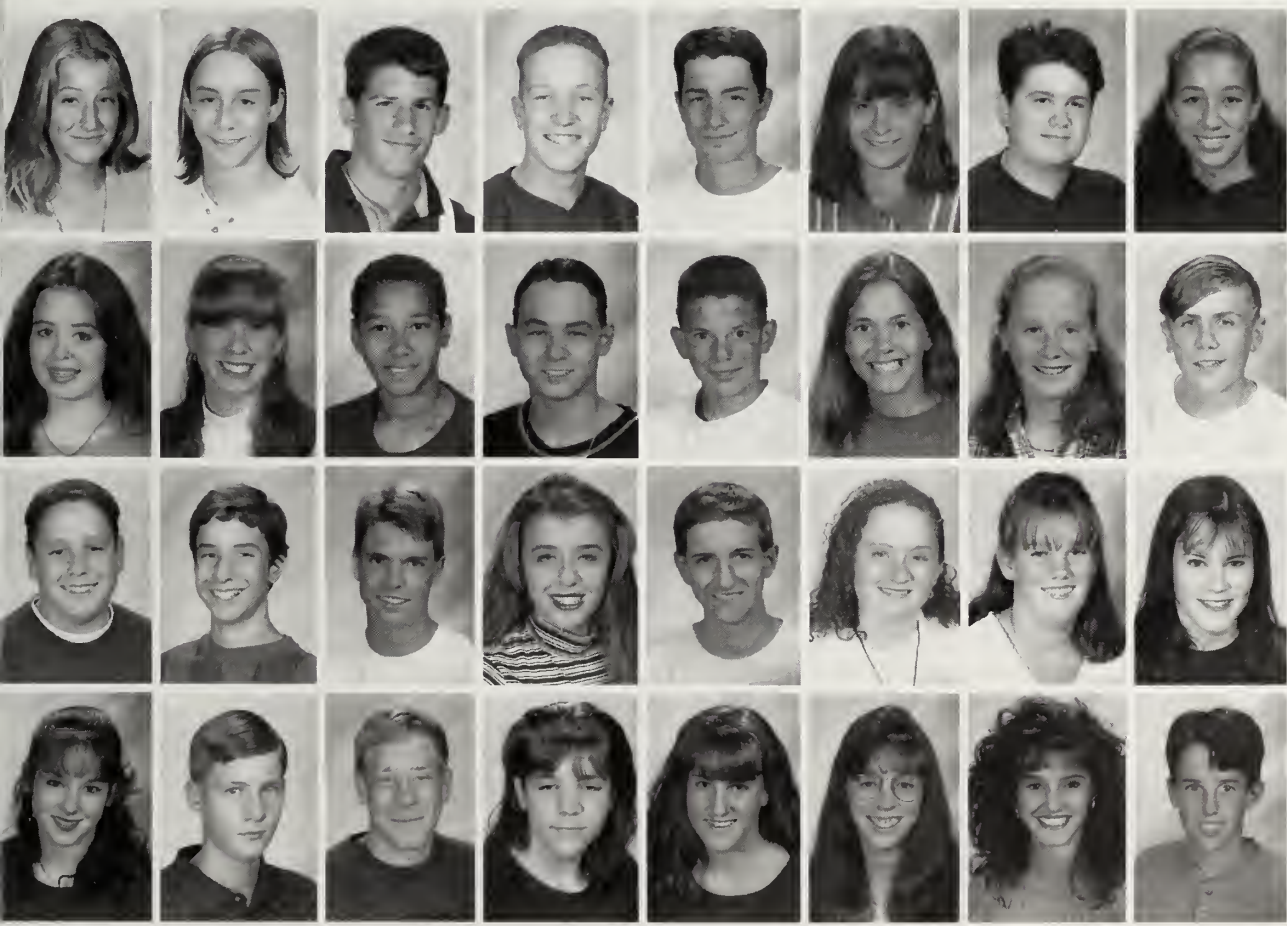

Gimme some of them there intestines. Robyn Perry and Linnea Anderson found that the science departments local skeleton was quite photogenic.. R. Simmons

Paul Lynot. Students mistook pizza, a popular favorite amongst the kids, as a "junk-food" or deemed "bad!". Yet pizza contained gargantuan amounts of all the good spooze.

Students also concerned themselves with exercise and fitness. "I love to run! Running and jogging makes me a happy gal filled with energy and well-being," revealed Marisa Papile. Others kept physically sound by not mixing with contained substances. "I stay away from drugs and alcohol because that stuff could mess up my future something awful," remarked Gary Jenner.

Healthy bodies and sound minds circled the minds of students. These students did not submit to the doldrums of sugar-filled candy and buttered popcorn. As Phil Deveau summed up "Milk, it does a body good." Rock on all you vegetarians in the house. Kaitlyn MacDonald

Check Yo' self before Yo' wreck Yo' self

Listen up freshmen, seniors know the way! Seniors ventured into the great wide open, they felt that if they knew during freshman year what they knew now, life would have been easier. "Freshman year I looked at things differently, I was too nervous to get involved," expressed Bill Lydon. Freshmen relied on senior buddies to pass down the knowledge from these years.

"The more involved you become the more friends you will make," remarked Noelle Achille a field hockey player and National Honor Society member. "First I was afraid that it would be hard to make friends. I began going to clubs and found a group of friends," responded freshman Melissa Neff.

Seniors agreed homework was difficult, but important to stay on top of their work. "Many pressures follow like grades. Remember to relax and enjoy," exclaimed Kate Hennigan.

"Your backpacks should be proportional to your actual body size," declared Ali Monac. Freshman David Norman shared, "I nervously rushed around the school and still never had time to go to my locker."

Senior year was full of confusion, excitement and anxiousness. Marisa Papile advised, "Keep your head and hands inside the vehicle and ENJOY the LONG RIDE!".

Top Talents Take Time

Amazingly, kids found time to pursue their talents between school, homework and friends. No matter what talents students developed over the years, most pastimes consumed hours of free time. Sports, clubs, band, music, dance, and art, all typical extra curricular activities infringed upon homework time. Aine Flaherty remarked, "After school I have field hockey. I don't get home until 5:00."

Kids put time and effort into perfecting these talents because they loved doing them. Jay Greenbaum remarked, "I like to draw pictures in my free time. Ink is my favorite medium, but I like to use charcoal, too." Curtis Riley, sophomore, boxes at O'Malley's Gym in Quincy three times a week. "It keeps me out of trouble," he chuckled. Andy Alchorn said, "I take singing lessons and I'm in the play," "I love the theater, acting lets you become something you're not," mentioned Joe Donovan. Junior Cody Oliva said, "I go to the Blue Hills to mountain bike. I sup'd up my Univega with Trans X handle bars for decending and highsfeeds, like 42 miles an hour."

All Work and No Play

Busy, busy bumblebees. With so many different extra curricular activities offered in this school and throughout this area, it was hard for students to find time to study. Whether it was sports, clubs, or jobs, many things occupied students' time.

"There are not enough hours in the day. Between my AP classes and being in many clubs, I rarely have any free time. I find myself using up every second of my frees," explained Matt Fallano. "The mornings before school and during lunch are good times to study and do homework if I don't have any frees. I work a lot during the week and find myself scrounging for time to pursue my academic career," said Julie Higgins.

Much sleep is lost throughout the week. Carol McIntyre stated, "I am the stage manager for the play and I also work throughout the week so I usually never get more than 6 hours of sleep a week." Teresa

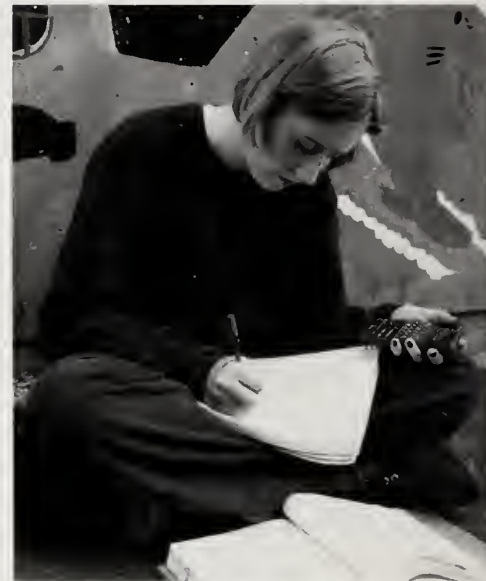

Walsh exclaimed, "I don't care what I have to do, I make sure I am in bed by 10 o'clock every night. I find time to do my homework in other classes."

Because of the variety of interests within the student body, sacrifices had to be made. Whether it was loss of sleep or not paying attention in a certain class, most managed to get their work done. It all paid off in the end. Keri Sherlock Dating, the talk of the town...or is it? While one may think having a significant other is the "in thing", it doesn't appear that way.

"On weekends you can always find me in a big group of friends, not just the same person over and over again", remarked Christine Cooper.

Carol McIntyre and Tim Donovan share a special time together.. Simonds

"My group of friends do something different every weekend, skiing, voyaging to Boston, and New Hampshire", declared Andy Alchorn.

While the majority of students enjoyed chillin' with a clump of friends, others enjoyed the dating scene. "For my boy-friends birthday we had a nice dinner and went to the circus, it was the most enjoyable time we've shared", pronounced Carol O'Gara.

Whether with a bunch of friends or as Mike Grugan put it, "that one special friend" people just wanted to have a good time, and that's just what they got. Brendan Casey and Alicia Gray

Meghan Rooney and Larry Kwong were among the ever - changing list of couples on the dating scene. Such on again, off again couples made it hard for one to keep track of who was dating whom. Patel

Many seniors felt that they did not have enough time to date in between college applications and homework. Kate McDonough, Katie Wyatt, Taylor Sturtevant, Katy Young, Tim Johnson, Dave Cevolani, Chris Leitao, and Jeremy Mitchell much rather enjoyed going out in large groups. McGrath

Weekend on the Roll

PARTY!!!! That's the word out of everyone's mouth when you mention weekend. "I love being with my friends and when we get together we go wild!! We act like a bunch of girls and we LOVE IT!!!" exclaimed Jenny McGee. "We like to drive around and look for cars full of "HOT" guys to follow. We also like to just hang out and eat!" commented Lenore Herget and Melissa Ruozzi. "I hang out at Scott Shuster's house," stated Michelle Cuddy.

"We go to Boston and the Plaza and we just hang out." pronounced Sarah Randall. "I go into Boston to see my Grandfather," remarked Cindy Ng. Boston and the Plaza were the "hang out" spots among the kids. "I like to go to the Plaza and browse around with my friends. Sometimes I buy stuff, but it's usually just to be with my friends." stated Laura McLeod. "I love to shop and the plaza is the place I go to do it." pronounced Tricia McEachern.

The week-end is the one thing everyone looks forward to! Michelle Pedretti

"I like to ride my dirt bike on the weekends," exclaimed Matthew Pitts. " Student

REDUCE! REUSE! RECYCLE!...

This common sentiment reverberated in minds of students. The students are trying to help the community in their goal of town wide recycling with the formation of the new Environment Club. Members Kaitlyn MacDonald and Keri Sherlock declared, "the amount of wasted paper in this school and this community is tremendous. This club will be able to make a strong difference in the lives of the students who wish to institute recycling into their lives, by establishing paper and soda can recycling." Senior Jo-Jo Talieri commented, "the club will increase awareness of the dangers of littering such as polluted water sources and polluted land."

Not all students had the time to participate in the activities of the Recycling Club, but none the less, they felt that litter and recycling were an integral part of community involvement. Sophomore Chris Bollin reflected that, "Recycling is helpful to society because it slows down pollution and also enables us to reuse things like plastic bags instead of just throwing them away which is harmful to the world."

Awareness of recycling within the community was spawned from the local weekly collection of recyclables which many households have successfully been involved in. This involvement at home increased the concern for a recycling program at school. Caity Alexander responded, "recycling at home has made me want a program established here, it seems like a waste to only recycle at home when so much could be done at school." Senior Christy Clark experimented with a mock recycling program last year for the science fair. Her experiment consisted of placing donated green recycling buckets with three individual paper bags in each in science class. One bag was for newspaper, one for white lined paper, and one was for other paper products. Although many students didn't know what the buckets were for Christy exclaimed, "a program is desperately needed here because of all the paper waste that is produced at this school, but the program has to be taken seriously. I think the Environmental Club will be the first step towards school wide recycling." Michelle Mason

Even though classrooms are participating in paper recycling many believe that a recycling options should also be implemented in the lunchroom. A. Patel

Ready to recycle her box of paper Abby Franklin a member of the Environmental Club goes about the school collecting full boxes every week. R. Simonds

Students who are environmentally conscious never throw away empty soda cans, rather save them for recycling. A. Patel

75% Of Students want recycling

20% Of students did not want recycling

5% of students were undecided about recycling

Double-stacking his responsibilities for the Environmental Club, Justin Emond begins the weekly task of emptying the recycling boxes located in every classroom. R. Simonds

Always with a grin, the ever happy Tim Johnson seems eager to start the early school day with a smile. K. Fink

Exhausted from a long day shopping at the Plaza, Lisa Andrews and Greg Constantino find it relaxing to simply sit and catch some rays in the sun of a crisp fall day. A. Patel

Whoever said that school was the place to study was definitely wrong, especially in Christine Fitzgerald's case. She prefers to cram for a big test in the luxurious comfort of her own car. K. O'Brien

Sliding down the hood of her car, Ryann Bailey desperately tries to escape going into school. A. Patel

O.K. with a speedy departure from school, Denise DeCross excitedly smiles as her weekend quickly approaches. A. Patel

LIFE IS A HIGHWAY!!!!

At last, sweet freedom. For many students a common rite of passage into adulthood begins with obtaining a license. Senior Liana Lucchesi declared "when I got my license I was instantly able to do more things, like going to the beach or just driving around with my friends. My parents also trusted me with a later curfew." Many students had to work around getting a car to drive, since they share with parents or siblings. Senior Tara Vautour, one of the lucky ones who has to shared a car with her parents expressed, "it's really difficult to coordinate when my parents want the car and when I want to use the car, especially on the weekends when I really want to drive."

Driving turned out to be more dangerous than young drivers anticipated. Quick decisions and speedy actions became real, not just a driver's ed documentary. Senior Christine Fitzgerald shared, "One of the worst accidents I've had was when I was driving home from a concert at Great Woods and I was sandwiched in between two other cars, totaling the car which wasn't even mine." Not all students have gotten into accidents but they still remain fearful of the prospect of getting into one, or of damaging their car. Nick Collins expressed, "I'm more worried about what will happen to my car if I get into an accident, because I have spent so much time fixing it."

So, with one foot on the gas pedal and one foot stuck in the door students find that once they acquire their license the only way to look back is through the rear view mirror. Michelle Mason

Trying to leave school during a last period free, Matt Draper finds his photo op. most hilarious. K. O'Brien Underclassmen who couldn't drive themselves to school and refused to take the bus found it easier to have parents drop them off for school in the morning. R. Simonds

Who Is That?

Bet you thought the freshmen had a hard time learning names! How about being a new staff member in a new school trying to learn all the names of their colleagues and students! Braintree High had four new staff members who succeeded at this very task. These staff members are Ms. Sazama, Ms. McElroy, Ms. Alberga and Mrs. Mott.

Ms. Sazama, one of the two new guidance counselors, always enjoyed working with people, especially young people. Before coming here, she worked at Massachusetts Vocational Rehabilitation Center as a counselor. "I love it here. Everyone is upbeat and I am impressed with the staff and faculty."

Ms. McElroy, also new to the guidance department, counseled at Holbrook Junior Senior High school last year. She felt that the counselors at her previous school were not as good as she felt they needed to be. Ms. McElroy came here hoping she could make a difference.

Ms. Alberga, the new school psychologist, came to us with an extensive clinical background. "I was originally interested in math and science until I realized that I found the people more interesting, and became concerned with their thoughts and feelings and how they chose to behave."

Mrs. Mott, a new Biology teacher, seems to have gotten a good reception. Freshman, Eli Charles, said, "I like her labs because I see things happen with my own eyes rather than just believing the textbook."

The students are really glad about the new additions to the staff and with a little help from the students, our new staff will no longer be left in the dark. Jim Hadley, Tim Clark

Enthusiastically mixing chemicals with her student, Danielle Deeb, Mrs. Mott stayed frequently after school to give extra help. A. Patel Intent on her paper work, Ms. Sazama familiarizes herself with some of her new students' records. The two new guidance counselors, Ms. Katie Sazama and Ms. Amy McElroy found that it was a lot of work to learn about their new students. A. Patel

To the Class of 1996,

I am sure that most of you will agree that the four years you spent at Braintree High School went by very quickly. Each of you have made a decision as to what direction your lives will go after you leave us. We, the entire staff at B.H.S., hope that you feel that we have helped you make that decision and prepare you for the exciting years to come.

We sincerely wish that all of your future endeavors be successful ones and that your lives be productive. The Class of 1996 has left its mark at B.H.S. and we will always have fond memories of you.

Good luck!! May you bring credit to your family, our school and our community.

Sincerely,

William S. Wassel
Headmaster

"Give me some of that good old involvement," stated Greg Newman. Many students felt that being involved brought them closer to their school environment. The clubs at Braintree High School created an atmosphere of friendship and embodied incredible town-gown relations. The clubs did not simply stay within the sheltered borders of their concrete mass. They also reached out into the community, volunteering at nursing homes, doing fundraisers, and other various activities to support the town.

Students could be seen at the school nearly all hours. Those involved with the Theater Guild and the Musical Theater Guild were often found acting, building, frolicking, dancing, and singing. The Theater Guild was a new addition to the club roster and provided a new outlet for all those who enjoy crying on cue. Their first exhibition was "A Midsummer Night's Dream" with Mr. Parsons as director of the fantabulous performance.

Another new club was the Environmental Club. Mr. Walsh led this merry bunch of granola eating, trash picking, recyclers. The club started the first attempt to separate paper from plastic in the school and was met with exuberance and a grand gathering of concerned environmentalists.

Yet it was not only the tip-top new clubs that created a frenzy. The Student Council had a change in advisors as Mr. Wenmark passed the torch to Mr. Fetsko and Ms. Glazerman. Other clubs like Key Club, S.A.D.D, and Cultural Awareness continued to contribute to not only the school but also the community. The top priority of club members consisted of being a part of history, a person not a number, a face with a name. Clubs held the needed home feeling that students strived for to make the day more bearable.

Clubs were just the tip of the iceberg, for they held much more than just status and free T-shirts. It was the caring and jubilant students who took part that gave each society that special je ne sais pas. Kaitlyn MacDonald

"I always get a little nervous when I'm going to get SUAQED," said Chris Gacicia. Although Mrs. Cosgrove told her students about Secret UnAnnounced Quizzes many students would rather keep them a secret. Many academic classes were often filled with top secret quizzes. Seniors stressed about perfect first term grades while underclassmen stressed about making it that far. Pop quizzes often prevented students from a perfect record if unprepared for a class. "Pop quizzes are rough because I don't know what to expect, so it's hard to get a good grade," revealed Caroline Burns.

"I love psychology because we get to explore the secrets of mans' mind," cited Karin Avitabile. Although everyone had their favorite class, students often struggled with those the most. "It's trying as a senior because I always have to work up my full potential," verbalized Anne Hurlebaus. Students tried hard all year to keep up their good grades and overcome their fear of Top Secret pop quizzes. Meghan McSheffrey, Elaina Parlee

Romeo, Oh Romeo

In recent years, English and Social Studies teachers have put a twist on means of learning the information, skits. These skits have given students the ability to express both intellect and creativity.

"I enjoy doing skits, it gives us a chance to express our knowledge of the book, while being creative at the same time. My most memorable experience is when Alison Pagnani and I were filming a skit in the woods, that was not on my property. In the middle of our recording, four kids began to yell profanities at us. We ignored them and finished our film. The next day, we viewed it and those kids were really loud, we had to film the whole project again," exclaimed John Rogan. These oral reports were always one of the high points of the year. "a little comedical break", as Chris Jenner put it, sometimes this comedy was not intended. "After doing my term paper on William Butler Yeats, I had to dress up as him and present my life to the class. Halfway through my speech, people began to laugh. I didn't think Yeats' life was so funny. After I finished I realized my fly was down, but at least I got an A", remarked Andy Cox. Students agreed that this recent addition to projects has increased learning ability, one can retain the information while having a good time. Brendan Casey

Burn Baby Burn!

"Physics is phun...YIPEEE!!!", exclaimed Carol O'Gara quoting the Physics team's motto. Science owed most of its popularity to double labs. "I love lab because it is the only time when I can mix chemicals together and cause a major reaction! We also get to use the bunsen burners even though I lit my sleeve on fire twice", remarked Nick Dunn. "Once we experimented with acid in chemistry and thinking I got it on my hand I panicked and ended up tripping over a chair. My knee hurt more than my hand did", stated Robyn Perry.

Students agreed that science also involved plenty of math. "The first day I was extremely confused, 'I was in science and we were doing math review, WHY!?'", verbalized Brian Thompson.

While students agreed that math and science are one of the more difficult courses, others enjoy a good challenge. "The more I practice problems the easier it gets. Math is like second nature to me, when I find spare time I crack open the books and try a few practice problems just to pass the time", commented an enthusiastic Andy Cox.

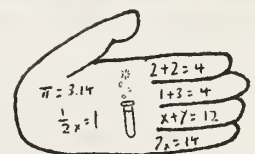

"If you enjoy numbers, ions, and equations; math and science were the subjects to be succeed. The world is based on technology...so keep experimenting!!!", expressed Gregg Newman. Alicia Gray

DIFFERENT STROKES

The bell rang and students piled into the hallway. Walking to class, the differences among students showed clearly.

The importance of different cultural backgrounds and languages was stressed during the year by teachers and students. The cultural awareness club and METCO displayed posters showing their cultural pride. The French and Spanish National Honor Societies also spread cultural appreciation.

Many students spoke English and a second language fluently. "My mother speaks French at home and I learned it from her before I started taking classes," commented Danielle Dominici.

According to Monica Lordelo, "there is a lot of great Portuguese food. My favorite is torresmos, which is a way of preparing pork."

The French and Spanish exchange programs were, as usual, a major influence on students, giving them a better idea of how people differ with their countries.

Marissa Vella, who went to France as part of the exchange program, remarked, "I'll never forget how much fun it was and what I learned there." Alison Pagnani commented, "We went to Paris for three days and it was different because we had to do things like order food for ourselves." Because of the wide variety of cultural backgrounds and studies, students learned more about different languages and countries. Erin Murphy

Here We Come...

Preparing for college, the main objective of seniors during their last year of high school. Seniors find that taking classes such as economics, accounting, computer sciences and auto body serve as a stepping stone for deciding upon a tentative career. Not only is it helping to aid students in their choices, as John Dewsnap, a computer sciences student, explained, "I am really interested in computers and plan on continuing with computers in college."

"I didn't take economics just because I thought it would be easy, I took it because I wanted the challenge of running a business and the first hand experience of all of the details involved with a company," expressed Bill Lydon a member of one of the economics classes.

Auto body is also a preparatory class for students interested in a career in auto mechanics. "With hands on experience, I'm learning the right way to fix a car and making necessary repairs," explained Mike Crowley when asked about his auto body class. Michelle Mason

The Week is Coming to an END!!

"Due next Thursday." This is the greeting heard by many students upon walking in their elective courses for the first time. Many thought that electives were classes that required no work, but to their surprise most found they had to complete projects to receive credit. "I thought Preschool would be an extremely easy class, but I found out that I had to teach the kids. That meant more homework," pronounced Keri Blake.

Not all students found the extra work to be bothersome. "I love being stressed out during the Yearbook deadlines. It's a fast paced course," exclaimed Michelle Mason. To quote Nick Dunn, "Yearbook is the 'Jimmy Jam.'" New Yearbook staffers underestimated the amount of work required. Erin Murphy shared, "I frequently stayed after school for a deadline and also spent a lot of time at home completing articles."

Even though many projects were completed outside of school, students taking cooking classes found their projects unique. The chefs expected to complete their projects inside the classroom. Kristin Sperdelozzi exclaimed, "the projects for cooking class aren't like real projects because in what other class can you eat what you worked so hard to make." Michelle Pedretti and Michelle Mason

Clad in plaid, hats on head, and enough blue and white to last for a year, students psyched themselves for Spirit Week. "I love Spirit Week because the whole school comes together and gets involved," expressed Tara Vautour. Mr. Wenmark revealed the secret students had been waiting to know all week. Matt Sterling and Sharon Blaney received the honor 'Mr. and Ms. Spirit Week' and Mr. Swanton, most spirited faculty.

The Homecoming parade, which has always preceded the Homecoming game, was rescheduled due to inclement weather. After long months of planning, arrangements for floats and teams were drastically changed. "I was shocked when I heard the parade was changed," recalled Nikki Rothgeb. On the Friday before the game, Mr. Wassel revealed the top secret that the parade would be that evening along with the game, which had also been changed.

"I'm glad that the parade was changed. More kids go to the Friday night games and I went to the parade with my friends. We would not have gone if it was on Saturday morning," shared Danny Duarte.

Fun in the Sun

Sticky, sweaty, hot. As the summer came to an end, students looked back at their fondest memories of their vacation. Many students traveled abroad in search of new places and new people.

One subject on seniors' minds was college. Carol McIntyre reflected back on her summer visits and stated, "I went to Burlington, Vermont, the Cape, New Hampshire, New York, and Maine this summer. I loved Burlington the most. It's a beautiful place filled with beautiful people. I want to go to UVM." "Out of all of the numerous places I visited this summer, Colby appealed to me the most. The campus is really beautiful," stated Leahanne Mansfield.

Many students wanted to get away from the pressures of school for the summer. Katie Wyatt, who spent the summer in the Cape, stated, "Every night my friends and I went down to P-town. We got to watch all of the drag queens wrestle in spaghetti and meatballs. It was a blast!" When Tim Donovan went away for camp, he came home to find a surprise. "When I returned home from Fellowship camp, I went up to my room to find a dummy made out of pillows and my new, unused school clothes, my Grateful Dead tapestry upside down, a rubber ducky in my hamster cage, and all of my tapes out of order. My brother had a party the night before so I thought it was him and his friends, but I later found out that my friends had broken into my house and done it. I was so mad; the dummy got to wear my clothes before I did."

Shakespeare with a Twist

"Romance, humor, action, and a disco ball this play had everything!", exclaimed Amanda Lacey. A Midsummer's Night Dream a classic love story by Shakespeare had a special added twist...bellbottoms, polyester, and "Saturday Night Fever".

Many love circles complicated the play adding a humorous note to the hard core Elizabethan language. The fairy, Puck, played by Justin Emond, fiddled with the hearts of the characters. "First Hermia was to marry Demetrius, but fell for Lysander or was that Helena... I don't know, but the acting was great. At first I thought it would have been boring with people wearing togas, but the costumes were out of this world!", revealed Anthony Papile.

"Long practice hours and many late night rehearsals are a necessity for a production of this sort, just getting the script well memorized is a giant leap", commented stage manager Kate McAllister. The crew also put in many tiresome hours, "Jim Bowser, the light director, is a genius. The details he adds finalize the play and make it special", expressed Anne Hurlebaus.

"The effort exerted was worth it, cast and crew worked like a family. Mr. Parsons, the man behind the scenes also deserved a pat on the back, he made it all come together", stated Katie Wyatt.

"The emotion on stage seemed life-like, all the actors played their parts well. I felt like I was watching a Soap Opera," commented Matt Fallano. K. Young Growing ears and a big nose, Bottom played by Steve Dailey is guided by Ryann Bailey, queen of the fairies. "I don't know what sleep is anymore!" exclaimed Brandon Fong. As seniors rushed down the hall, underclassmen caught glimpses of college applications in one hand and antacid in the other.

"Just thinking about college gives me a stomach ache. My doctor said Mylanta," revealed Alicia Gray. On top of homework and sports, seniors often had trouble arranging time for college visits. "I'm feeling really stressed out, because I'm applying Early Action at two schools," mentioned Christy Clark after visiting Boston College and Providence College. "I eat, breathe, and sleep college!" declared Leahanne Mansfield.

Seniors found a major change as the oldest students in the school. "Teachers treat us differently because they think that we're more mature than the underclassmen," pronounced Beth Arienti.

Homework, an everyday stress, became a struggle for many seniors. "If it wasn't for my mom's help, I don't know what would have happened," verbalized Dennis O'Connell.

Imagine all the People

Bouncing around the room, the junior class danced till the break of dawn. On May 13, 1995, the class of 1996 showed its spirit as the junior prom took off with a bang. Clearly, the happy glow of everyone's face as they entered the pit, it was definitely a special night.

Students counted on the fact that girls would take a bit longer than boys to get ready for the big night. Katie Wyatt remembered, "It took me more than four hours to organize. By the time I did all my last minute errands and got my hair done, it was almost five o'clock." Katie, like most girls had a lengthy list of things to do ranging from appointments with the hair stylists, to stops at the florist.

Matt Eckelman decided, like many others, that best part of the prom was the party at my friends house before the dance started."

The theme "Imagine" truly expressed how the Junior class felt about the much anticipated prom. Nikki Rothgeb declared, "the chosen theme was loved by all because of its uniqueness."

At the end of the night, exhausted prom goers packed their bags and headed for their chosen destinations.

Judging by the content faces the event was a great success. Marisa Papile blurted, "It was a snazzy time. They should definitely keep having Junior proms." Alicia Gray, Anne Hurlebaus, Elaina Parlee and Meghan McSheffrey

HERE WE GO BRAINTREE!

School spirit was second to none at homecoming time. Students decked out in blue and white filled the gymnasium. Many kids painted their faces to show their school pride. Sophomore, Aine Flaherty remarked, "I brought blue and white face paint to school and convinced a lot of people to do it!" Andrea Wheeler commented, "It was fun seeing the whole school get excited for the homecoming game and dance." Everyone cheered as students ran around with noise signs.

The dance team showed their stuff with Aerosmith's "Dude looks Like a Lady". The crowd gasped as cheerleader Kerry Sheehan fell when her support faltered during a difficult stunt. The football team displayed their competitiveness by tackling Alex Hortaridis, who was dressed as the Brookline player. Matt Sterling, Sharon Blaney, and Mr. Swanton won the weeklong spirit awards.

The homecoming game took place Friday night instead of the traditional Saturday afternoon because of the forecasted rain. The team put in a great effort, however they were downsized by Brookline and lost, 21-7.

Don't Rain On My Parade!

Oh, change is such sweet sorrow! The ever popular Homecoming parade experienced a complete turn around due to turbulent weather. Announced on the Thursday before the set day, at 2:05 Mr. Wassell released the unexpected and surprising news. The treasured game and parade would be held on the Friday before the traditional Saturday date. "I was so angry that we were not able to find out about the parade until after school. I think that more students would have come to see the parade and game if they had found out about the change earlier," commented Nikki Rothgeb. Many students thought that the weather was not a feasible excuse for the disruption in tradition.

Other students found that because of the rush, more school pride erupted. "At first I had reservations towards the parade. No floats seemed a little ridiculous and every year we have marched in the rain. "I did have a really fun time at the game and parade though and I enjoyed sleeping late the next day," stated Noelle Achille.

With all the chaos and turbulence, students made the best "floats" they could, without trucks or other vehicles. "Being a freshman, I have never seen another parade, so this parade was okay with me. Our theme was Hollywood and dressing up like celebrities was really fun," remarked Ryan Grow.

The parade, though wacky and crazy, created a great time with school spirit and proud students. Although the change was successful the majority of students want the ways of the old back in effect. Kaitlyn MacDonald

Blaring music welcomed students into the gym. Stagers, sat on the bleachers and strained their necks to find friends to hang with. Couples started to group in the corners dancing to the music. "It was great, I went with friends and I ended up meeting someone new. It will be a night that I will never forget. I can't wait for next year's dance." exclaimed Bill Smith "I had an extraordinary time.

I liked the music and the decorations." stated Sara Dunn The roses and the balloons were the thing. People left with balloons on their wrists, shoes, and pocketbooks. "I had fun wandering around and taking all the balloons and the roses off the wall." They were all so pretty that I had to have them." expressed Melissa McLaughlin.

With the music from Grease and Coolio people just danced away. The music swept students off their feet. Some "staggers" came alone and left with a friend. "I went just to hang with friends. We came in with seven and left with eight ." remarked Kerry Whalen. Michelle Pedretti

"Kick off your shoes and relax your feet, party on down to the escape beat." Students shedded their clothes as the night went on, and the music blared. McGrath

Ooh, the chilly!

The nation's capital experienced an extremely cold winter, indoors and outdoors. Three times in one year, the entire government shut itself down due to disagreement between the Executive and Legislative sections of Washington. Outdoors the Blizzard of 96' kept many a federal employee in the home and out of the job. Dominoes and other pizza chains flourished with the shutdown, as record amounts of cheesy delights were very immature and chilly feeling as all the law-makers duked it out ordered.

Students found the over the budget. Citizens felt that shutdown to be ridiculous and an their behavior made for a bad annoyance. "I am going on the example towards other nations Spain trip in February and was and demoralized the image of the nation. From healthcare reform to never get to my house in time!" pepperoni pizza, the government exclaimed Noelle Achille. was very cold place in January.

Tragedy in Middle America

The entire nation shook as the worst terrorist act on United States soil occurred. Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Middle-America, a place no one ever expected, suffered the fatal blow of an enormous bomb set off in a government building. Dozens died upon impact and days later, other bodies were located. The fatalities shocked and appalled millions. Many wondered how such an incident could occur and who could be the proprietor of such destruction.

A nation wide search launched for the killers as families and friends mourned the dead. Timothy McVeigh was arrested for the crime and was scheduled to stand trial for the mass execution of men, women, and an entire day-care filled with young children.

"I was disgusted when I found out about the bombing. Those poor families have to suffer so much and I am also scared that something like this could happen around here. If a government building can be bombed, nothing is safe," stated Michelle Bridge.

Many felt that a general uneasiness was felt amongst citizens after the tragedy. The victims will be missed and their killers brought to justice whoever the law sees they may be. Kaitlyn MacDonald

Till the Morning Comes...

On August 9, 1995 the music industry lost yet another legend to drugs. Joining Janis Joplin, Jim Morrison, and Jimi Hendrix, Jerry Garcia (lead singer of the time-withstanding music group the Grateful Dead) died of a sudden and tragic heroin overdose in California. Only six days after his 53rd birthday, the rock demi-god died from the horrible addiction he had been fighting for years. "I was so shocked to hear he died. All those years of playing classic songs like 'Box of Rain', 'Unbroken Chain', and 'China Doll' are gone and I never got to see them play live," stated Dan Bjorkman.

Thousands of mourners came together in tribute to their hero. Unfortunately, in recent years people have claimed to like the group but in truth, only worshipped the life of drugs that tended to surround the group. Such "fans" could be detected by claiming The Dead's best songs had been 'Truckin' or 'I will Survive'. Yet 'I Will Survive's' actual name was 'Touch of Grey' a faux pas that left true fans bewildered.

Students and teachers found that the loss of such an influential and thought provoking character proved hard to forget. The band spun generations of "Dead-heads" and incited cult followings of VW vans and gold chevettes.

Soon after Jerry's death, the Grateful Dead separated. Yet 30 years of records, concerts, and unforgettable songs left many Dead-Heads thinking that the Grateful Dead "will not fade away...." Kaitlyn MacDonald

Everybody Hurts

For the first time since 1989, R.E.M. finally toured again. Doomed from the beginning, it was plagued with problems. Bill Berry's aneurysm was just the first of the many difficulties this band faced on the road. R.E.M. had to break the news to many disappointed fans in Europe, that a few of the shows would have to be postponed until after Berry's recovery. When things finally seemed to get back on track, both Michael Stipe and Mike Mills ended up in the hospital; Stipe with a hernia problem and Mills with an intestinal problem. Fans who were lucky enough to catch one of their shows found that all of these medical problems did not hinder their ability to put on a great show. "I saw R.E.M. three times. In October I was in the 14th row and my pal Brendan Casey won front row tickets!," shared Kate McAllister. The quick recovery of all the band members pleased their devoted fans. Kaitlyn MacDonald and Keri Sherlock

Time Marches on

On Saturday, November 4, 1995, peace claimed yet another victim. Yitzhak Rabin, Prime Minister of Israel, suffered the blazing and fatal shots of a crazed opposer, after addressing a peace rally.

Rabin, 73 years of age, descended from a city hall balcony and while sliding into his limosine, Yigal Amir fired the fatal shots. Amir, a 23 year-old Jewish law student, fled but was soon captured minutes after the shooting.

Tel Aviv burst into mass hysteria as the nation and the world awaited an answer for Rabin's disposition. When word broke of the leader's death, mourners across the globe felt the loss. Buried on November 6, 1995, many government officials traveled abroad to attend the state funeral.

From major cities to smaller towns, people honored the late Prime Minister with pray and silent vigils. His calming words, his strive for peace, and his Nobel-prize winning leadership, though vacated, are sure not to be forgotten. Kaitlyn MacDonald and Saima Shanawaz

Order In The Court

Over the past year, law and justice have played a more predominant role in society than ever. Ever since the infamous O.J. Simpson case, the ratings of Court TV have gone through the roof. "It is as if spectators feel that they can make a difference in the outcome of the case", declared Sean Saniuk. Many people watch the new Court

TV as one would watch their favorite sitcom or soap opera. "It is absurd, I've seen people glued to their television for hours, watching court cases as if they were the jury", stated Jill Foran. Overall, our lives and society have begun to revolve around a recent addition to cable television, Court TV. Brendan Casey

The Troops Go Marching In

President Clinton began to make his case for U.S. intervention in Bosnia - Herzegovina in November. His plans were to send 20,000 U.S. troops to Bosnia once a peace plan initialed by the combatants in Ohio, is formally signed. Bosnian people have suffered tremendously. Mass executions, ethnic cleansing, campaigns of rape and terror and much more have been going on in the war - torn country. 250,00 people have died so far. Two million have been driven from their homes, with over a million of them still homeless. The 20,000 American troops will be joining 40,000 European troops to help keep peace, but in Sarejevo, Serbs took to the streets to protest the Balkan peace plan. The protest came just hours after Serb leader Radovan Karadzic delivered a plea to accept the U.S. plan, which cuts Bosnia in half. One half would be governed by the Serbs, and the other including Sarejevo, by a Muslim - Croat Federation. Saima Shahmawaz

During the recent months, the South Shore Plaza has undergone many changes. The addition of a new floor, food court, and modern renovations. K. Fink

Mmm Mmm Good

A new item in the cafeteria has taken over the menu, hot soup. Each day, the homemade soup outsells the normal "junk food" during all three lunches. Freshman were especially happy about the soup since their third floor classrooms were nearly as cold as the outdoors. "The homemade soup is great. I look forward to having hot soup for lunch. It warms me up," explained Erin

Carroll. The selection of soup varies from day to day, ranging from minestrone to chicken gumbo. "They make the best soup, any kind you can imagine, I have it every day," added Michelle Keady. This recent addition to the selection, is sure to remain as an option for at least the time being due to the evergrowing demand for homemade hot soup. Brendan Casey

A Whole New Wing

The South Shore Plaza is adding a new second level with one hundred new retailers, a 700 seat food court and a new 1,100 space parking garage. The project also includes a new renovation of the mall. The new Plaza is scheduled to be completed in fall of 1996. A wonderful 700 seat food court is scheduled to open prior to the grand opening, around February of 1996. What will the new shopping center look like? The mall will have a contemporary design with vaulted skylights, a glass atrium entrance and a full wall of floor to ceiling windows in the food court. The food court will be located on the second level of the Lord & Taylor wing. There will be escalators located in the mall between Kay Jewelers and Miltons. How do the workers in the mall like the expansion? Nitsa Drake of Miltons said "I hate it, it is an inconvenience for workers in the mall." Susan Portsmouth of Kay Jewelers said "I think it is exciting but it is very hard for the employees. It is also very dusty and smells like fumes in lots of places in the mall." Shoppers though, shall not experience. Signs will be used extensively to explain the construction where possible. In the end this inconvenience will all pay off, when the beautiful expansion of the local shopping center emerges. Saima Shahnawaz

A Cure In The Making?

A new type of drug appears effective in boosting the level of immune cells that are attacked by the AIDS virus. This new drug, Ritonavir, is of a different class of AIDS drugs called Protease Inhibitors. These drugs have been the effect of turning off the protease enzyme that helps the spread of the virus. If approved by the FDA, Ritonavir and similar drugs will be used in combination with other secret agents. None of the secret agents by themselves seem to be able to get rid of all the virus, and none of them have yet been shown to prolong life or delay progression of the disease. Saima Shahnawaz

OFF WE GO...

The homeroom bell rings...another monotonous day begins...Oh, you have a field trip! Yippee!!! "I look forward to field trips, they are fun and we get out of school," revealed Anthony Papile.

"My favorite trip was the photography venture to Boston. We could take pictures of city life and still get to act like an average tourist and shop at the quaint stores," commented Melissa McVay. Field trips were designed to relieve students of their school obligations and at the same time make learning fun.

Throughout the year the music classes went on numerous field trips to Boston Symphony and their annual trip out of state. "I love getting dressed it makes the trip special. Also we learned alot about my favorite composer, Beethoven, he was a funny guy," shared Lynne Thompson. "The music trip is something I look forward to every year, this will be my fourth and last year going, it is a good experience to meet people from other parts of the country. One year we met kids from Texas, they were cool and at the same time brings us closer to our classmates who we did not know so well," stated Chris Gacicia.

"Once we went to the Museum of Fine Arts with my English class, and I got separated from my group and began to panic. But the people there were so friendly and helpful, I also learned facts about my favorite artist Picasso," expressed John Thompson.

Just the thought of getting out of school for the day and going to interesting places put a smile on many faces. A treat for all, field trips were an exciting way to spend a school day.

Fantasy

It is the typical Friday night  and a group of Braintree High students decided to go to the mall after the big basketball  game. As they walked through the entrance, they discovered that they were the lucky Grand Prize winners of a shopping spree to Contempo. Once they picked out the trendiest outfits, they decided to go to their favorite 24 hour restaurant Bickford's for some chips  and ice cream.  When they got in there they were surprised to see their favorite band Aerosmith at their table. To make up for the fact that they stole their table, Aerosmith invited them to a  party sponsored by 107.3.  Because Aerosmith enjoyed their company so much they invited them to the premiere of Lion King,  Legends of the Fall, and Forrest Gump at the Braintree Ten. There they got their pictures taken for YM  and Sports Illustrated. Then they met Brad Pitt and Meg Ryan, their favorite actor and actress. Just then they woke up and realized that they had to get up and go to their English  and Social Studies classes. Keri Sherlock and Teresa Walsh

"For the first time ever we made the tournament!" exclaimed Lenore Herget of the girls varsity soccer team. In seventeen years they had never made the tournament, until this year when a new coach came in and they set a goal. The goal was to make the tournament, and they succeeded.

For a non - competitive team the dance team also had a winning season. The girls entered the Universal Dance Association Competition at BC High. "We came in second place out of ten teams! All of our hard work and extra practices really paid off," shared Leahanne Mansfield.

The Top Secret about field hockey was revealed this year and more girls tried out than ever. "We had a lot more interest this season. There was an enormous amount of freshmen playing," explained Noelle Achille.

Captains Meghan Rooney and Uchechi Kalu were proud of their cross country team. "We had a lot of new players this year, but they ended up being an asset to the team. We also won the banner contest."

Finally, the football team had one of their best seasons. Nathan Collins Jensen cited, "We played in the division championships for the first time ever." With the secret out about sports, more students participated and more teams had winning seasons. Meghan McSheffrey, Elaina Parlee

"I am so proud that the Dance Team came in second place in their competition!" pronounced coach Patty Hale. Having never competed before, the dance team triumphantly greeted the challenge with a second place win. The cheerleaders also rocked at their competition with a fourth place trophy.

Both the cheerleaders and the dance team were delighted to have many new athletes on their teams. First year dancer Linda O'Connell revealed, "For my first year I have experienced commitment, friendship and rhythm." Randi Pittman jokes, "The games are fun but I think they should put cushions on the bleachers!"

Their final season coming to a close, senior captains looked back at highlights of the season and prepared to say goodbye. "The best way to end my season was our second place win. I'll never forget all of the happy times our team shared," expressed Christy Clark.

GOOOAAAL!!

"The highlight of the season, in my opinion, was our tournament game, even though we lost. It was the first time, in school history, the girls soccer team has been in the state tournament. It was during this game that we had talent and the ability to win. The team is now more excited than ever to play next season, and we're ready to make it further", Young. Brendan Casey

Behind the Scenes!

"I like to wrestle because it is a good way to relieve stress" stated Bill Smith. Many team members felt that wrestling also helped them deal with thier problems. "I find that it keeps me busy and helps me get a good workout," stated Steve Riley. One of the teams good luck charms was J.Y.D., a figureine called Junk Yard Dog. It stands by the mat to give the team good luck. Paul Walsh reveled "I find it easier to wrestle when J.Y.D. is on the sidelines." Wrestling is not the only team with good luck charms. The Ice Hockey team also had some. "I always tie my left skate before I tie my right one," replied James Farrenkopf.

Whether on the mats or on the ice, the team and players always was a little nervous when someone seemed to be better and bigger than them.. "It is a little intimidating to go against someone twice your size, but the coach just tells us to do our best and not give up," exclaimed wrestler Chris Hartman. "I would be lying if I said that it doesn't get discouraging. Yet, we usually manage to look beyond all that," revealed hockey player Phil Delcourt. Michelle Pedretti and Laura McLeod

The winds of change blew into Braintree this year not only at the high school but throughout the community as the plaza expanded and new teachers were introduced.

The finalization of construction and the new appearance of the South Shore Plaza remained Top Secret but that did not stop shoppers from revealing in consumer delight. Remaining Top Secret was also the addition of three new teachers, Ms. Mott, Ms. Sazama, and Ms. McElroy.

your dreams and remember we'll always be there for you.
Love, Mom, Dad &
Coleen.*

Liana,
Congratulations!
We are so proud of you. We wish you success and happiness in the future. Love,
Mom, Dad,
Danielle & Chris.

*Noelle, Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others can't keep it from themselves.
Love, Mom & Chris.*

*Michelle, We're very proud of you. May all your future dreams
come true.
Love, Mom, Dad, &
Eddie*

*It's your first day of school and you're ready to go.
There were so many things that you just had to know.
And now here you are at graduation
day.
But wasn't this picture taken just yesterday?*

*Jackie,
Thanks for making
us so proud.
Love, Mom, Dad &
Caity.*

*The Ocean...ominous.
The
winds...whipping.
The sky...storming.
Yet it was paled by the birth of a tiny baby girl.
The very best to our most precious memory of the Blizzard of 78.
We love you so.
Daddy & Mommy,
Timmy, Brian &
Abby too.*

Amy,
Life is like a box of chocolates.
We got a peach when we picked
you. Good luck in college.
Love Mom,
Dad, Paul & Billy.

Jen,
Job well done! We love
you, Mom & Dad.

To Jules,
We love you
and we're proud of you. We will always be here to help you.
Love Mom &
Dad.

Katy,
We are so proud of you!
As we reflect on all your accomplishments, we are struck most by how graciously and effortlessly
you have done it all. No matter where your dreams take you, may you always feel our love and our support deep in your heart.
Love, Mom, Dad & Allie.

Congratulations
Melissa. We'll
remember the joy and pride received in watching all your accomplishments in school and on the athletic field. We are very proud of
you. We love you,
Mom & Dad.

Katie,
We're so proud of you and all of your accomplishments!
Luck and love in all the years ahead!
All our love always,
Mom, Dad & Kevin.

Kristin,
The two things parents can give a child is roots & wings. We hope we have given you both. We love you, and are very proud of you!
Love, Dad,
Mom & Billy.

Anne,
May the years ahead be as special as you are. We love
you very much.
Mom, Dad,
Jenny &
Snoopy.

Alicia,
Continue to reach for the stars & be all you can be and remember, Never underestimate the power of a kind word or deed. You have been a source of constant JOY in our lives. BE HAPPY. Love, Mom,
Ron, Wa-Wa &
Gino.

Yes Adam You're still #1 with us!
Congratulations
from all of us!
Love Mom, Dad,
Keith, Josh,
Stacie, Jay & Michael.

*You've been a blessing right
from the start,
And we love
you, Sarah, with all of our hearts.
Love Mom &
Dad.*

*Amy,
We couldn't love you more. Believe in yourself,
and the sky's the limit!
Love Mom &
Dad.*

Congratulations Paul!
We are very proud of you. Love Mom, Jack & Jamie.

*Congratulations
Karen,
We're very proud of the caring, young woman you've become. We hope college is everything
you're anticipating.
Love Mom, Dad &
Kris.*

*Michelle,
Congratulations,
you made it!
We love you.
Mom & Pops,
Marina & Cookie.*

*Congratulations Marisa! We are very proud of all your accomplishments. You have given us many wonderfully memorable moments through the years.
May all your dreams for the future come true. Love you, Mom, Dad, David and Lauren.*

Frank,
Congratulations
and good luck!
Love Mom & Dad.

*Erin,
Thank you for all the happiness and joy you have given us. May your future be bright. We love
you, Dad, Mom,
Joe, Emily &
Jackie.*

*Congratulations to our valentine
"munchkin". May your future be filled with much happiness and success. With great pride and love always Mom & Dad.*

COLOPHON

Volume 54 of the Wampatuck was published in a limited edition of 350 copies with 150 pages in the spring book and an additional 16 page magazine that was delivered in the fall. The supplement covered activities and events that occurred after the January deadline. The books were printed by Herf Jones, 525 Boyd School Road, Gettysburg, PA 17325.

The edition cost approximately $13,000 to publish and contained 16 pages of color. Individual copies were sold for $37. Name stamping was available at $3.00 per book.

The cover was designed by plant and student artists. The cover was printed in a four-color litho process.

The book was produced using Aldus Pagemaker 4.2 on a variety of Macintosh models and an Apple Personal Laser Writer. All copy was done using MacWrite II. Typography was produced exclusively in the times font and swing bold. Headlines were all created in Broderbund Typestyler 1.01.

The school portrait photographer was McGrath studios, 1 Perkins Ave., Brockton, Ma. 02401. McGrath studios also shot candid photos for clubs and organizations. Photographers Keri O'Brien, photo editor, Amy Patel, Roy Simonds, and Katie Fink did the remaining candid photography that appeared in the book.

Mrs. Joan Carroll was advisor. Elaina Parlee was editor in chief; Holly Flynn, co editor in chief, business manager, ad editor, community editor; Meghan McSheffrey, co editor in chief, sports editor, layout designer; Kaitlyn McDonald, copy editor, student life editor, club editor; Keri Sherlock, people editor, computer editor; Michelle Mason, copy editor, academics editor; Brendan Casey, computer and disk organizer, and Cody Oliva was the book's artist. Mrs. Noreen Sullivan acted as financial advisor and Mrs. Laurie Mott aided staff with planning and technical support.

Braintree High School is a member of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, the National Scholastic Press Association, and Yankee Pen. The Wampatuck has received many awards in the past from CSPA and NSPA.

Steve Barrett will go crazy if he has to stay in class for one more minute. Some students got tired of sitting in class period after period. R. Simonds

Even as the break between classes was cut down to three minutes, Bevan Chan and Lisa Sugrue still find time to smile at others rushing to class. R. Simonds

Mary Foster, Jodi Walorz, and Cindy Doran, paint their faces for a project in yearbook. Many students participated in helping the yearbook with the the Top Secret theme. J. Carroll

Lynne Thompson collapses on the ground after a tiring game of Field Hockey. Many players were exhausted after running up and down the field. M. Janjua

To Top it All Off

As the year rolled to a close, students looked back fondly at the Top Secrets revealed throughout the year. Two new guidance counselors, as well as the addition of three new teachers were welcomed with open arms.

Despite the change of the Homecoming parade, the dance was a complete success. The Student Council also pulled off a new Holiday Dance around Christmas time which over 200 students attended.

When the 'Blizzard of '96" hit Braintree, students were overjoyed - at first. The last days of classes got pushed back eight days and graduation was moved from June 1 to June 8. Still, students studied hard and the year flew by. Seniors waved good bye to their final days at Braintree High, and underclassmen looked forward to moving up another grade. Saying good bye was hard to do, but students looked back with a smile at all of their own Top Secrets. Elaina Parlee, Meghan McSheffrey

Rushing to her locker to grab some notes, Lisa Opanasettes worries that she'll be late for class. With only three minutes of passing time, many students often found themselves running for a class. R. Simmonds

Coffee was a necessity requirement to school life for many students. Jill Foran pours herself a cup to start her day off right. R. Simmonds

While Alicia Grey chats with friends, Andy Cox steals some of her snack. Good friends never have a problem "sharing." R. Simmonds

The yearbook staff poses for a family picture in their home away from home. The staff often found themselves after school as late as ten o'clock. A. Hurlebaus

Chatting with friends in free, Paul Distefano and Amanda Benoit catch up on the latest gossip. McGrath

The art staff celebrates the opening of the faculty art exhibit. The Thayer Academy gallery provided a great location to share their works with the public. Shirley Levy, Sue Arthur, Claire Murphy, Jane Sollogub, Dr. Kurzberg, Jonna Sundberg, Heidi Larson, Joan Carroll, Ted Ek, Judy Green, Karen Roop, missing Ellen Pompeo. Mr. Green

For lunch, Dianna Llama quenches her thirst with an Ocean Spray. Many students could be found brown bagging their lunch, and juice boxes were a popular item. R. Simmonds
